

Salesfire

We are looking for an Agile Project Manager to join our team

Salary: Competitive

Location: Middlesbrough

Type: Permanent

Why we exist

Since first launching in 2017, Salesfire has grown to provide a personalised on-site experience to over four million customers a day. Over 500 online businesses in the UK trust our award-winning products to help them convert more visitors into customers.

We're determined to help eCommerce businesses compete in a competitive industry dominated by huge blue chip companies. Our service provides online retailers the products and solutions they need to create a personalised user journey and enhance their online shopping experience.

This has all been made possible through our talented team which has grown to over 40 strong and we are seeking a talented Agile Project Manager to scope, plan and schedule the delivery of projects across our Product and Technical teams. We are looking for commercially minded individuals who are able to remove roadblocks and protect Salesfire's product quality.

The part you'll play

- Work with the Product and Technical teams to scope, plan and schedule the delivery of projects.
- Provide direction and support to the Technical team to ensure projects are fully scoped and remove roadblocks from their work.
- Run stand ups and track blocked items to resolve them.
- Track project progress to ensure successful delivery.
- Ensure we can support the business needs whilst also protecting the product quality.
- Report to your line manager of project activity.
- Review and improve our project delivery processes as we scale our teams.
- Identify areas of project management that can be improved across the wider business such as in our Design and Marketing teams.

The skills you'll need

- You are an experienced Project Manager with an Advanced Project Management qualification (e.g. Agile PM, PRINCE2 Practitioner, PMP, PMI).
- Preferable agile methodology training/experience, such as Certified SCRUM Master (CSM) or 3 years of experience as an Agile Project Manager.
- Able to design Agile processes and workflows, and continuously improve them to always aim at the highest performance for our teams.
- Able to drive and track progress of projects using agile methodologies.
- Experienced in turning requirements into stories for our technical teams.
- Able to effectively coordinate work with cross-functional teams, with experience communicating complex technical solutions to non-technical users and vice-versa.
- Calm under pressure, able to handle change and adapt priorities accordingly, to make decisions quickly, to work round obstacles and to get things done.
- Experienced in supporting Product Roadmaps for concurrent projects and helping identify their priorities, then managing the available resources to ensure the roadmap remains on track.
- Experience with project management tools (we use Clubhouse).
- Knowledge of the latest SaaS technologies and trends understanding how these could benefit Salesfire's processes and methodology.

The perks we offer

Our team is at the centre of our success and we ensure we offer the benefits and opportunities they deserve. At the heart of our collaborative culture is our newly refurbished Middlesbrough HQ and we've made sure it's a great place to work.

We provide the technology and equipment you need to carry out your role to the best of your ability, shared meeting and break-away spaces for when you need time away from your desk and a fully stocked kitchen of tea and coffee. In addition, we offer flexible working for a better work-life balance and regular social events.

We all need a break from work, so everyone gets 24 days paid holidays in addition to the public bank holidays.
